COMPULSORY FOUNDATION COURSE IN ENGLISH

Unit	Name of the Lesson/Poem/ Grammar	Learning Objectives - Students will learn:	Learning Outcome- After completing the Chapter, students should be able to (Moral)
Lesson Details
1.	Toasted English - R. K. Narayan	This lesson explains how the same language, that is English, changes depending on whether it is being used in Britain or America.	Students are able to understand if it is time to create a version of English exclusively for Indians
2.	The Need of Excellence - Narayana Murthy	The essay is a convocation address delivered to the students of National Institute of Design. The author speaks about why quality and excellence are important attributes to have.	The main factor for success is excellence. For the need of development one must give importance to quality than quantity. One must build their reputation with their achievements.
3.	How I Became a Public Speaker - G. B. Shaw	The essay is an extract from Shaw's autobiography and describes his initiation into public speaking. He describes how he trained for it and various techniques he learnt in order to be an effective debater.	Practice makes man perfect. One must never be repetitive and always try to introduce new and interesting things in their speech.
4.	Shooting an Elephant - George Orwell	A biographical account of Orwell and his experience as a Burmese police officer in the British Indian colony. The focus of the story is on the narrator's internal struggle to complete his duty as an officer of the British Empire in order to avoid looking like a fool in front of the Burmese people.	The themes of imperialism, captivity, and authority is understood. The officer struggles with the choice to kill the elephant while moral compass tells him to observe and report, is highlighted.
5.	The Social Cost of Economics Globalisation - Vandana Shiva	The essay discusses the dark side of development, the new economic order and the author's belief in sustainable, productive	Learnt the side effects of globalisation, liberalization and privatization.

		development.
Poem Details
6.	Money Madness - D. H. Lawrence	The poem addresses the increasing greed in our society and how we are growing mad as a result. The speaker criticizes the injustice of anyone having to beg to eat and stay alive, and he warns that society's collective hunger for more money will lead us to kill one another if we do not stop to think rationally.	Money is seen as something that makes us mad and causes us pain and also as something which enslaves and degrades us. The poem also points out that the way we think about and treat one other which is poisoned by the economic framework in which we live.
7.	How Do I Love Thee? - Elizabeth Barrett Browning	This sonnet was written by the poet to express her love towards her husband. She expresses the eternal nature of love and its power to overcome everything, including death.	The depth of love, not the quantity of love gives power to any human being. It is seen to be stronger even in the face of death.
8.	The Soul's Prayer - Sarojini Naidu	A dialogue between a soul and its creator is seen in this poem. The soul arrogantly believes that it is capable of knowing as much as the creator while the creator tries to shield the pain this knowledge would bring.	The mysteries and complexities of life and creation is explained. Arrogance is the downfall while returning to God alone can give peace to one's soul.
9.	Ode on the Death of a Favourite Cat - Thomas Gray	The poem is an ode, based on an actual incident in which a cat has accidentally drowned in a tub of water in which the owner had been keeping some gold fish.	The poem acts as a simple story with the moral of innocence getting tempted by the attractiveness of evil.
10.	Richard Cory - Edwin Arlington Robinson	The poem speaks about Richard Cory, a gentlemen who is slim, good looking, rich and admired as everyone wants to be him. Despite his wealth, looks, and popularity he goes home and shoots himself in the head.	Money and looks cannot buy happiness and things are not always what they appear to be.

Unit	Name of the Lesson/Poem/ Grammar	Learning Objectives -	Learning Outcome-
Lesson Details
1.	IndraNooyi: A Corporate Giant	The essay speaks about Indra Nooyi's rise to the top at PepsiCo, her work ethics and how she directed the company's global strategy, while ably handling her personal and official responsibilities.	Working hard constantly develops oneself. To improve the organization one must improve oneself and the organization gets pulled up. One must challenge oneself by taking up difficult assignments rather than taking up easy one.
2.	Tune in to the voice of the Deprived Author- Aruna Roy	This essay makes us aware of the denial of rights to a sizeable percentage of Indian citizen.	The knowledge of empowerment, that is, the recognition of political responsibility, with the use of intelligence and courage to help the deprived find self-expression.
3.	Work Brings Solace Author- A. P. J. Abdul Kalam	In this essay, Kalam speaks his meeting with Wernher von Braun, widely respected as the most important figure in the development of rocket technology.	Importance of hard work and what one can achieve through it. One must have single minded devotion to their goal.
4.	The Worship of the Wealthy Author- G. K. Chesterton	This essay offers a liberal dose of informal, assertive tone and common sense approach. The hypocrisy of journalists and writers who flatter the wealthy is seen.	Understand the literary devices being employed by journalists to praise the wealthy and powerful.
5.	In Praise of Mistake Author- Robert Lynd	This essay shows how readers take delight in pointing out the factual as well as other errors made by	Sometimes mistakes makes life more interesting. The ridiculousness of one's perceptions of making famous novelists and other writers.	mistakes is highlighted.

Poem Details
6.	Silver Poet- Walter de la Mare	At night the moon has the ability to colour the common place with its own distinct fingers. It changes everything seen in daytime. Everything around suddenly seems to turn into silver.	We learn to appreciate the beauty of nature in very simple scenery of a beautiful moonlit night.
7.	Breezy April Poet- Rabindranath Tagore	The poem is an ode addressed to the breeze of the month April. It describes the magical power of the season and the breeze. He personifies the breeze as the breeze aspires the qualities of rejuvenation and communication.	To live as one with the nature and welcome the month of April with its promise of blooms and life.
8.	The Soldier Poet- Rupert Brooke	This is a sonnet describing a soldier's pride for his country and his willingness to die for his country.	The poem arises in us the strong sense of patriotism. Emotions and thoughts of soldiers are conveyed.
9.	The Arrow and the Song Poet- H. W. Longfellow	This poem is about one arrow and song falling to earth. After sometime both the arrow and song being found, where the arrow is not broken but the whole song is found in a friend's heart.	Anything and everything one says or does will have consequences, good or bad. We must make the right choice and not choose the "damaging arrow" but rather the "kind song".
10.	Lochinvar Poet- Walter Scott	The poem is about the heroic figure, Lochinvar. He races across Scotland to attend the wedding of his beloved to another. He promises not to disrupt the wedding and wishes to enjoy a dance. He whispers sweet words to the bride and then runs away with her.	Love affects humans in such a way that it influences irrational decisions and spontaneous choices that could affect their lives forever. But big risks can lead to big rewards, and love in itself can already be seen as an award in itself.
